

Football Story Starter 1

While he had always know he was destined for great things, he had never known exactly what form that greatness would take. Now it was clear, he was going to become the world's first flying footballer.

Football Story Starter 2

They knew that it was going to be hard getting the boys to accept that a girl's team could play just as well (if not better than) a boys team. They were sure that their new coach was exactly what they needed to do it. But was the coach really on their side?

Football Story Starter 3

He knew he wasn't the best player on the team. In fact, he knew that he was probably the worst player on the team. Nonetheless, he loved the beautiful game more than anything and was determined to get better and help his team go all the way. He was going to turn his unlucky number thirteen, lucky.

Football Story Starter 4

Everyone on the team knew he needed new boots. Everyone on the team knew he couldn't afford them. The shiny, red football boots that had been waiting for him on the doorstep that morning could have come from any of his team mates but when he put them on, he realised that they had come from somewhere else entirely.
